DON'TS FOR CANAL ORATORS.

WHAT NOT TO TALK ABOUT IN THE CAMPAIGN.

Plenty of Dead Weight Without Gov. Odell-Instructions on the Countering of Embarrassing Questions-One Line for the Farmers, Another in the City.

Speakers are to be sent out on the stump to make a campaign for the $101,000,000 canal appropriation, which is to be voted on next November. To the association which is to pay their expenses the following instruc-tions are offered free:

Don't mention Gov. Odell. The canal enlargement proposition has enough dead

If anybody asks what happened to the $0,000,000 appropriation voted in 1895, suggest to your audience that he is a rowdy and a disturber and ought to be put out. When your meeting is along the line of the canal write to us for names of canal contractors thereabout, and they will supply chairmen for the meetings-perhaps audiences as well.

When talking to farmers impress on them that the cities are to pay almost all the cost. Point out that New York city pays 69 per cent, of the State taxes. When addressing a meeting in cities declare that the farmer is against the expenditure because he's jealous of the on just what it will be.

A very annoying question sometimes asked is: "Who gets the cent if grain is carried from the West to the seaboard at a cent a bushel less?" The questioner thinks the answer is that which James J. Hill gave—that it makes wheat a cent cheaper for the other fellow. The best way to meet that query is to say: "I presume the person who has so rudely interrupted me is in the employ of the railroads."

Don't mention Gov. Odell.

Roast the railroads always. Harriman's interested in only one railroad in this State and the veto power takes care of its own.

Gov. WOMEN CAN'T IDENTIFY. Dictum From Magistrate Crane in the Case of Two Alleged Huggers. Rebecca Maloney, a nurse in the employ of the family of Edward Hagaman Hall of 12 West 103d street, son of ex-Judge Ernest Hall, and the secretary of the American Scenic and Historical Preservation Socety, accused Frederick Van Dyke of 63 West Ninety-first street and Harry H. Gross of 155 West 103d street in the Harlem police court vesterday of having insulted her in Central Park Thursday afternoon.

The nurse said she had gone to the park with Mrs. Hall and her nine-year-old daughter, Edith. She was sitting on a bench waiting for her mistress, she said, when two young men came along and sat down beside her.

They began making insulting remarks,

They began making insulting remarks, and then both put their arms around her. She fought herself away and then started to find her mistress. When Mrs. Hall came the young men were found and held until Policeman Quinn could be summoned. Mrs. Hall said she held the young men by "moral force," while her daughter and the nurse went for the policeman. When the prisoners were arraigned yesterday Magistrate Crane put them in line with several others. The nurse identified them, but Mrs. Hall and her daughter failed to pick them out as the offenders. Magistrate Mrs. Hall and her daughter tailed to pick them out as the offenders. Magistrate Crane said he had very little faith in such identifications, and discharged the two young men, whose fathers were present. When Mrs. Hall protested the Magistrate said: "Madam, in my experience I have found that women can seldom identify any part I have no faith in women's identification."

DIED AFTER ROW WITH COP. Coroner Will Investigate Death of Man

Who Was in a Fight. County Physician Converse has refused to issue a death certificate until after an investigation into the death of Andrew Holzhaus, who was found lying at the foot of a staircase in a sailors' boarding house at 213 Bloomfield street, Hoboken, last Sunday morning. Holzhaus was removed to St. Mary's Hospital, where he died a few hours later.

There is a rumor that Holzhaus was struck in a fight with Patrolman Peters. County Physician Converse found a fracture at the base of the skull and ordered Coroner Parslow to hold the body until the case could be looked into. The Coroner, after examining Patrolman Peters and other witnesses yesterday, sail that it had not been established that Holzhaus died of not been established that Holzhaus died of a blow of the cop's club. Holzhaus and two other men, the Coroner learned, were fighting on Bloomfield street when Peters came along. When Peters interfered he was set upon by the men and was forced to use his club. Julius Hoffmann, one of the men, said that Peters had struck him but that he didn't see Holzhaus struck.

Hoffmann said that when the fight was stopped Peters pushed Holzhaus into the boarding house. Holzhaus fell heavily. Hoffmann said, but didn't appear to be hurt. Emil LeFerve, proprietor of the boarding house, confirmed Hoffmann's testimony.

Columbia Leaves Bristol With Bow Re-

paired. BRISTOL, R. I., June 5 .- This afternoon the Columbia, the last of the 90-footers to be refitted at Herreshoff's during the week for the Sandy Hook races, left Bristol on the trip west to be near the racing grounds. The Columbia underwent considerable repairing at the Herreshoff shops, parts of the construction at the bow having given way ast Wednesday while the craft was off

Glen Cove.

It is learned that a narrow escape from serious disaster to the boat's rig was avoided by the quick action of the helmsman in shooting the boat up in the wind. The Columbia was thoroughly repaired, the work having been carried on continuously from the time she arrived in Bristol yesterday morning until she left this afternoon at the ciclock in tow of her tender, the day morning until she let the act and at 5.40 o'clock in tow of her tender, the Park City. Several of the boat's sails were refitted at the Herreshoff sail loft while she was in Bristol. The craft left the harbor with her topmast housed.

COURT BOUNCES J. J. COOGAN.

HE WAS RECEIVER OF A MILLION-DOLLAR CONTRACTING FIRM.

Grants an Application for His Removal as Unfit, and Hints That Justice McCall. Who Appointed Him, Should Have Done It-Opinion Says He Wasn't Candid.

The Appellate Division of the Supreme 'ourt handed down an opinion vesterday to the effect that James J. Coogan, who was President of the Borough of Manhattan in the Van Wyck administration, is unfit to act as receiver for the firm of Brown & Fleming. The court also ordered that loogan be removed.

It is the first case of the kind on the recrds of the Appellate Division. Brown & Fleming are contractors in the rip-rap rock industry, with a capital of about $1,000,000. The firm is thoroughly solvent and has a growing business, but the partners couldn't agree, so Fleming, through his lawyer, David McClure, began suit for a dissolution of partnership and asked that a receiver be appointed for the assets. There were no creditors. The case was heard by Justice McCall.

William R. Wilder of the firm of Wilder Anderson, counsel for Brown, asked that one of the partners or some good business man outside be appointed receiver if it was necessary to have a receiver at all. Justice McCall appointed Coogan.

Mr. Wilder first tried to get rid of Coogan without attacking him directly. He asked the Appellate Division to rule that no receiver was necessary. On that point, how-ever, the Appellate Division ruled that there was so much hard feeling be-tween Fleming and Brown that a com-petent receiver should be appointed for the benefit of both. Wilder then moved before the Supreme Court that Coogan be removed. Argument of this motion was heard by Justice McCall this motion was heard by Justice McCall, who had made the appointment. He denied the motion, and counsel for Brown then appealed to the Appellate Division. In his argument Lawyer Wilder declared that Coogan had $43,000 worth of judgments recorded against him and that as he hadn't succeeded in conducting his own business he was not fit to run the business of Brown & Fleming, which he knew nothing about. In its opinion upholding that argument the Appellate Division says in part:

the Appellate Division says in part:

The business of the copartnership was large and important, its assets of very great value and the business so situated that for the protection of the interests of all parties it was necessary to continue it; otherwise great loss would be suffered. The technical parts of the business had been carried on principally by one of the partners, the financial department of that business by another. It is apparent, from the papers before us, that for the successful conduct of the business pendente life, it is necessary not only that the receiver should have some knowledge of the details and method of conducting the business placed in his hands, but that he should also be a person of good financial credit in the community.

placed in his hands, but that he should also be a person of good financial credit in the community.

It is shown in the moving papers in this application that the receiver who has been appointed has no technical knowledge of this business, and that fact is not denied by him. It is also made to appear that many judgments unsatisfied of record are standing against him. He asserts that most of such judgments have been paid and satisfied, but he produces no evidence to that effect, and he admits that some of them are unpaid and unsatisfied, for reasons which he declares to be satisfactory to himself, but what those reasons are, is not stated to the court.

There should be no question of the solvency or of the business capacity of a receiver in this case. Matters confided to his charge are too important for both parties to have any debatable question as to that. The receiver appointed in this case has not met with cander and by a full explanation the reasons assigned by the appellent as grounds for his removal, and we think that, in the exercise of a wise and proper discretion, the Judge below should have granted the motion to remove him and to substitute in his place a person of undoubted solvency and business capacity.

The question under consideration is whether their cestion of the Penal Code providing that witnesses must testify in gambling cases, whether their cettionny is self-infimitating or not, and providing them immunity from prosecution, is constitutional. The Appellate Division of the First Department held that it is unconstitutional.

Beaten Oarsmen Decline Trophies.

One of the most interesting races at the Harlem Rowing Association's Regatta on Decoration Day was the cutter race in which crews from the First, Second, Third and Fourth divisions of the Naval Battalion ompeted. The veterans of the Second Division were so confident of their crew's sucess that two weeks before the races they ordered from a jeweller a complete set of welve silver drinking steins to be presented to the members of the crew after they had to the members of the crew after they had won the race. They did not win. Although the crew of the Fourth Division beat the Second out at the finish the veterans decided not to let the steins go to waste. They sent them, anyway. The Second Division crew refused to accept the souvenirs. The men are rather inclined to be provoked about the affair, as the other crews view it in a humorous light. The steins are still at their quarters.

NEWS OF THE HARNESS HORSES.

Fast Workouts and Lively Brushes at the Empire City Track. The horses are now stepping so fast over the Empire track that new records for the season are made almost daily. On Wednesday the black pacer Dewey H., 2:141/2, owned by Thomas J. Sharkey, was driven an exhibition mile for the owner. The half-mile pole was reached in 1:18, a mere jog, but then the clip grew faster and the, next quarter was covered in thirty seconds, a two-minute gait. The footing was not quite so secure in homestretch owing to dampness from the sprinkling wagons and the final quarter was in 32, making the last half in 1:02, the fastest move for the distance this year. The full mile was in 2:20.

On Thursday, James Butler's precociou filly Daphne Direct, 3 years old, made the most creditable performance of the year, all things considered. Trainer Thomas Murphy was up. The full mile was paced in 2:181, with the last half in 1:03 and the final quarter in 30% seconds. This filly is by Direct, 2:05%, out of Miss Daphne by Alcantara, 2:23, grandson of Daphne, by Jay Gould, 2:21%. Yesterday was the regular working da and the track was a busy place from early morning until nearly sundown. The work-ing record for a mile was reduced by the pacer Fred W., 2:08)4. The owner, Alexander Frankenstein, was present when Clyde McBride drove him a mile in 2:18 and then repeated him in 2:13 with the last half mile in 1:05 evenly rated. The aggregate of the two miles was beaten by the bay pacer Rector, an untried horse owned by David Lee. With E. B. Emory up Rector paced a mile in 2:16% and repeated in 2:13%, each milebeing evenly rated.

The most sensational performance yester day was made by A. B. Gwathmey's trotter Forney, 2:1914, driven by John Howell. The horse has been at the track only a few days as the owner has used him on the Speedway.

as the owner has used him on the Speedway. In a spirit of good humor the owner offered to wager $100 that the horse could trot a quarter mile in 31 seconds. At the first trial llowell drove Forney from the quarter to the half-mile post in 2004 as recorded by two watches while others made it 31. At the second attempt the furlong was trotted in 15 and the quarter in 3034 seconds. The horse drew a road cart.

The first notable performance of the day was that of the bay trotter Miss Gatewood 2.194. Clyde McBride drove her three fast miles, the fastest three consecutive hats yet shown by any horse this season. The first was in 2.185, the second in 2.19 and the third 2.185. Each mile was evenly rated.

Dan Maloney sent his pacer King Charles, 2.0814, three good heats and two of them in fast company, with a nice brush in each that pleased the crowd. Thomas Murphy, behind James Butler's Hetty G. 2.0514, drove the first mile with King Charles, and the last half was paced in 1.07, with the last quarter in 32 seconds.

Both the little fellow and the big one will use bicycles fitted with coaster brakes, which, in contrast to last season, are shown by the entry list to be in the majority. The veteran Daniel M. Adee and his son are likewise among the entrants. Last year's contest was won by Fred Buehler a 152-pound rider, who beat out Dixon, the heavyweight, by 22 feet. The coasting record for the hill, which is 2.349 feet long, is 3.163 1-6 feet, made on a bicycle fitted with a coaster brake.

The Alpha Motor Cycle Club have a run to Concey Island, through Bath Beach and over the Shore road, to-morrow. The Monroe Wheelmen will go to Ridgewood. The Royal Arcanum Club has a run to Yonkers. The Century Wheelmen go to Pelham Bay; women invited.

Cycle racing is to be run on a more extensive scale than usual in this city this summer. The Manhattan Beach track, which is on the paced circuit, will begin operations on June 13, when there will be a card of professional and amateur sprint races and a motor-paced contest. The new idea of making a feature of one big amateur race by getting a special sanction and offering a prize of greater value than the purses usually given to professionals is to be tried at the opening meet. There will be a two-mile handicap, and a horse and buggy will be offered for first prize as an inducement to the pick of the amateurs. The handicapping will be done with the special view of equalizing the abilities of all, and the riders will be weeded out through a series of preliminary heats.

weeded out through a series of preliminary heats.

There will be two events for professionals, the Manhattan Handicap, at five miles, and a half-mile open event. All the star riders, including Champion Frank Kramer, Iver, Lawson, Eddie Bald, Floyd McFarland, Will Fenn, George Schrieber, Jacobson, the Bedell brothers, Eddie Root, Galvin, Floyd, Franz Krebs and King, will face the starter.

The motor-paced race, which will be run in three five-mile heats, will have for competitors George Leander, winner of the sixin three five-mile heats, will have for com-petitors George Leander, winner of the six-day race in Madison Square Garden last winter: Basil de Guichard, the speedy little French rider, and Benny Munroe of Memphis. Each will be equipped with a 14-horse-power motor capable of covering a mile in a minute. This will be the first race of the newly estab-lished paced championship circuit to be seen near New York.

A new rule has been adopted by the executive committee of the paced circuit of the N. C. A. to provide to some extent against accidents caused by tires bursting. The rule requires all the riders hereafter to use tires of American make, instead of the very thin and speedy but dangerous French tires that have been in use. The schedule of the paced circuit has been altered by allotting the dates assigned to Harry Elkes to Basil de Guichard and De Guichard's dates to Nat Butler. Otto Maya has been replaced by Louis Mettling, Maya, in the judgment of the committee, having failed to "make good."

MRS. STOUT LOSES IN METROPOLI-TAN ASSOCIATION SEMI-FINAL.

Miss Vanderhoef Heads Her by 2 Up and I to Play and Will Meet Mrs. E. A. Manice To-day for the Local Title -Michael's Great Game at Baltusrol

Golfing history repeated itself yesterday in the Women's Metropolitan Golf Associa-tion championship, for the sensation was the defeat in the semi-final of Mrs. Stout, the national champion, who was put out in the same round last year by Mrs. E. A. Manice, by 4 up and 3 to play. Mrs. Stout's conqueror yesterday was Miss Fanny Louise Vanderhoef of the Ardsley Club, who won by 2 up and 1 to play. It was a fine match, stubbornly contested throughout, with Mrs. Stout 1 up at the turn, when Miss Vanderhoef got a 4 on five successive holes, absolutely par golf, and at the end of the run she was 3 up with 4 to play. Better work on the green won the fifteenth and a better long game for Mrs. Stout, but she pulled into long grass from the seventeenth tee, which, with a foot put missed for a half, ended her uphill effort Mrs. Stout won the first hole in 5 to 6: the halved the next in 5 and the champion took the third in 3 to 4, Miss Vanderhoef being short from the tee. Two down, it was time for Miss Vanderhoef to show her quality. Mrs. Stout's drive for the fourth hole, 240 yards, was a beauty, but Miss Vanderhoef pulled into stubbly grass. With a midiron she more than recovered any disadvantage, for the ball was sent to within a yard of the hole. Mrs. Stout gasped and then topped her approach. She was short on the next trial, on nicely in 4 and close up in 5, when Miss Vanderhoef ran down for a 3 They alternated in winning on the next two, the damage each time being on the poorer approach and the strokes 5 to 6. Then they halved to the turn, the cards re-cording 43 strokes and the Ardsley player drove long balls straight on the flag and approached in so deadly a way that on three of the greens she only needed one put. Mrs. Stout pulled from the tee and had to play the odd after the tenth, eleven th and twelfth drives; on the thirteenth she pulled her second and was short of the green, and on the fourteenth she sliced her second. Mrs. Stout halved the twelfth through getting down a 30-foot put and she rimmed for a half on the fourteenth.

Three up and only 4 to play, Mrs. Stout now put "ginger" into her long game. On the fifteenth however, Miss Vanderhoef would have halved but for the miss of a twelve-inch put, and on the sixteenth she sliced out of bounds, having to drive again, and then topped an iron shot. Mrs. Stout bagged the two holes and drove for the 255-yard seventeenth hole but one down. She sliced the drive into long grass and did not get out on her second. But for a miss of another short put, Mrs. Stout would still have halved, for after getting to the green in 2 Miss Vanderhoef also lost a twelve-inch put, but she finally won the hole in 5 to 6. Miss Vanderhoef uses a brassy from the tees, or to be more precise, all her drivers are soled with brass-pand she carries three of them. She has twice been enampion of the Ardsley odd after the tenth, eleven th and twelfth behind James Butler's Hetty G. 2084, drove the first mile with King Charles, and the last half was paced in 1.07, with the last quarter in 32 seconds.

When King Charles was brought out for the second heat Murphy had Mr. Butler's matine winner Don Derby, 208, ready and this time the crowd saw a senuine race in the brush through the homestretch. While the mile was in 2154, the last half was in 1.503 and the final quarter in 30%. This brought King Charles to a drive and Don Derby finished in front.

Another home brush for "keeps" was between the three trotters Promise, 2124, driven by Charles C. Lloyd. It had been whispered that Equity could outbrush any trotter at the track and as Foundarished in his nile as few moments as few hores step of the miles of the promise had no idea of accepting a position in the last half in 10755, and the fart ling until the three swing into the homestretch. Baltusrol's long links was again the encampment of the New Jersey State Golf Association vesterday, the players marching onward in battalions with great comradery for the cups and glory. In the champion-ship battle the conqueror of the titleholder, Murray Olyphant of Princeton, was put out in the first round by M. M. Michaels, runner up last year. He was 3 down with 5 to go and then won out, while, to make Michaels still more of a hero, in the second round after being 3 down with 7 to go with Archibald Graham, the New Jersey champion of 1909, he made the match all square and won on an extra hole.

There will be no formal protest by Princeon arising out of the decision by Umpire Holliday in the matter of a Princeton player batting out of turn in the game with Yale last Saturday. The point in question furnished a knotty problem for President Pul-Boston, June 5.—The championship of the Women's Golf Association was won on the Oakley Country Club course to-day by Miss Fanny C. Osgood of the Country Club, Brookine, who defeated Miss Harriot S. Curtis of Oakley by 4 up and 3 to play. The winner played a superb game. Her score for the first round of the match, 29 strokes, is the best ever made over the Oakley short course by a woman golfer. Miss Curtis played good golf, but was unable to cope with the playing of her opponent. The winner drove with great accuracy. Her second shots were almost perfection and her work on the green was admirable. The match was finished at the fifteenth, the hole being halved in 5.

Miss Enid Merrill of Newton Centre won the consolation trophy, defeating Mrs. F. G. Davis of Allston in the final match. The score was 1 up. liam of the National League to decide. There was no precedent for a ruling and the rule governing the point is anything but clear.

Wrong Man Out for Mistake in Batting

Mr. Pulliam wanted to establish a precedent and he gave the matter a great deal of thought before arriving at a conclusion. The decision of President Pulliam is fully explained in the president's statement, below. In all probability this will be the end of the matter so far as Yale and Princeton are concerned, as an extra game between the two could not be played, owing to the schedules being filled and possible faculty intervention. Both sides were willing to have Pulliam rule on the point, and the dispute—if such it may be called—was entirely friendly. Mr. Pul-

"In this game Capt. Winslow raised the point of the proper batsman having failed to take his position at the bat and called for a ruling by the umpire, under Rule 46, Section 1 of the Playing Rules of the National League, which rule reads as follows:

"The batsman is out if he falls to take his position at the bat in his order of batting, unless the error be discovered and the proper batsman takes his position before a time 'at bat' is recorded, and, in such case, the balls and strikes called must be counted in the time 'at bat' of the proper batsman, and only the proper batsman shall be declared out, and no run shall be accred or bases run because of any act of the improper bateman; provided, this rule shall not take effect unless the out is declared before the ball is delivered to the succeeding batsman. Should batsman declared out by this rule be sufficient to retire the side, the proper batsman the next innings is the player who would have come to bat had the player been out by ordinary play.

"As the result of a decision of Umpire Holliday on Capt. Winslow's appeal, a friendly protest was lodged with this office by Capt. Pearson of the Princeton team for the construction of said rule, it being understood and so stated by Capt. Pearson that the Princeton Club did not desire to benefit by any technicality, nor to have the result of said game changed by any ruling that might be made by this office.

"The umpire's report of the play and ruling in question is as follows:

"Mr. Harry C. Pulliam, President National Leaguer.

in question is as follows:

Mr. Harry Ca-Pulliam, President National Leaguer
DEAR SIR: The play came up as follows:

"It should have been Wells's turn at the bat! instead Davis came up and went out, as the rules say on an ordinary play; but the mistake was not known until Davis wanted to epen up the next inning at the bat. In the regular open tournament of the New York Tennis Club which begins a week from Monday it will be the endeavor of the committee to secure as many women entries as possible. In this way it is thought that renewed interest in the game will be awakened, particularly among the women players.

Although the entry list for next week's tourney of the West Side Tennis Club does not close until to-night, there have already been secured a number of well-known players.

"My construction of this rule, after careful consideration, is as follows, and it shall be my construction and decision in the future, in case this play comes up in the National

my construction and decision in the future, in case this play comes up in the National League:

"When Umpire Holliday's attention was called to the fact that Dayis had improperly batted in the fifth inning he should have called Wells, the proper batsman, out for not taking his turn at the bat, and he should have announced this fact to the official scorer and had the Wells "out" recorded as the third "out" of the fifth inning and announced that Dayis's action in the fifth inning was null and void. In the sixth inning the proper batsmen in order should have been Dayis, Ameli, Stevens.

"The umpire erred in cailing Dayis out in the sixth inning for batting out of turn in the fifth. According to Rule 46, the proper batsman only suffers the penalty of being called out for failure to take his position at the bat in his order of batting, and in this case Wells was the proper batsman, and therefore the only one to be declared out.

"The intent of the rule is to prevent a club being the beneficiary of an act of the improper batsman; therefore it was decread that when a protest was properly made all the actions of the improper batsman should he declared null and void and the proper batsman should be called out."

Harvard's new stroke is considered a good one by the land experts who have watched the crews each year in training. There is a longer sweep than Yale's, apparently, and a slower recovery, yet the power and life in the boat are very noticeable.

The eight rowed back from the naval station in long stretches and Coach Higginson's face was flushed and his wind was short when he stepped out of the boat.

"That's pretty hard work for me, he said." I wouldn't mind it if I were in training, but you can readily see that I am not."
